Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claim 101 is allowed.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The prior arts of record do not anticipate or render obvious to one skilled in the art an electro-optical glazing structure comprising various elements as claimed, more specifically the electro-optical comprising a sheet having a large plurality of paired layers, each comprising a first and a second material in each of the paired layers, the first and the second material being selected so that the difference in the index of refraction for electromagnetic radiation having the first linear polarization of the first and the second material is greater than the difference in the index of refraction for electromagnetic radiation having the second linear polarization of the first and the second material, each of the paired layers having a total thickness varying non-linearly across the sheet, and a scattering layer comprising a polymer dispersed liquid crystal layer and an optical state switching means for switching the electro-optical glazing panel to the first optical state of operation for inducing the electro-optical glazing structure into the reflection mode of operation and for switching the electro-optical glazing panel to the second optical state of operation for inducing the electro-optical glazing structure into the transmission mode of operation.
